OSHA/HIPAA COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS

Solutions for a Safe,
Healthy and Compliant Practice

OSHA and Infection Control

Required by Law Annual OSHA Training

OSHA standards have been developed for all workplaces in the United States, and the medical office is no exception. A variety of federal safety laws including a Hazard Communication Standard, the Bloodborne Disease Pathogens Standard, and the new Globally Harmonized System Regulation, have a significant impact on your practice.

The Occupational Safety & Health Administration has developed these standards to ensure a safe, hazard-free environment for you and your staff. Staying abreast of ever-changing rules and regulations becomes easy with our in-office and online OSHA and Infection Control training courses.

OSHA Compliance and Infection Control Complete Training Program*

This course is designed to educate all participants on the annual training requirements for OSHA compliance in medical facilities to promote a culture of safety throughout the medical practice.

Topics Include:

- The Hazard Communication Standard
- The new GHS regulation goes into effect on June 1, 2016
- Record Keeping Requirements
- Pinpoint hidden or overlooked safety and health issues
- Ensure your practice is up-to-date on bloodborne pathogens, needlestick, and other potentially infectious materials
- Comply with Exit Route Standards—signage, lighting, diagrams, markings
- Prepare for an OSHA Inspection
- How to Develop the Required Written Exposure Control Plan
- CDC Guideline for Infection Control
- Means of Egress

This comprehensive training program will review current OSHA safety requirements for all staff members. Participants will receive a detailed OSHA Compliance Checklist and other training resources to maintain compliance.

Each attendee is required to purchase a work-book.
